ODD INDIAN NAMES.

Valuable Article on the Nomenclature of Washington.

How it Came That so Many Englishmen Were Housed in Naming Puget Sound Points.

The following are the meaning and origin of the various names on the north Pacific coast:

INDIAN NAMES.
Neah bay, Clallam county. This comes from the name of a Makah chief whose name was Neah, or rather, Deeah. Makah, or Makkah, Clallam county, means the people who live on a point of land projecting into the sea, or the cape people.
Kisset is another name by other Indians for the same people, and means the same as Makah.
Clallam is the name of a county and comes from the Indian tribe of that name, which was originally written S'Kialiam. It is said by the Clallam Indians to be a corruption of their own name for themselves, Nu-sklam, meaning "strong people." More probably, however, it comes from the Makah name for them, meaning "clam people," from "klotah," a clam, and "ah," a man.
Se-quin, Clallam county, is a corruption of the Indian name for the same place, which is "Socheekivating."
Skowah, Mason county, comes from the Indian name for themselves of the Indians living there, which is S'kaw-kaw-bish, which the Clallams call S'kaw-kaw-mish. It means "river people," from kaw, fresh water, the Skowahish river being the largest body of fresh water in that region. The termination "mish," or "bish," so common on the Sound, means people, the Skowahish word for people being "klowobish," and that of the lower Chehalis Indians, alah-mish.
Twana is a corruption from Too-ah, the original name of the tribe, of which the Skowahish Indians were one band, and is said by George Gibbs to be reported to mean "a portage," because a short portage across the head of Hood's canal will save a water trip around the peninsula by way of Port Gamble; but I have never been able to verify it, though I have often inquired of the Indians.
Chehalis, name of river, county and town, is pronounced by the Indians Tshah-lis, and by some early writers was written Chickelis. It means "land," and was given to the Indians about the river's mouth because of the sand there, and hence the early settlers gave the river and upper Chehalis Indians the same name, though originally neither was called by this name by the Indians.
Wishkah, Chehalis county, is a corruption of the Chehalis name Hwish-kahl, and means "stinking water."
Skookum Chuck, Thurston county, is from the Chinook jargon, and means "strong or swift water." Skookum comes originally from the Chehalis word skukum, strong, and very friendly from the word "ti-tah" in the old Chinook language, which in Nootka is Chuk, and Clatsop, Ti-chuk.

Skookum bay, Mason county, has the same origin, and was given to the bay because the tides rush through it with great swiftness.
Tumwater, Thurston county, is a Chinook jargon word, meaning "waterfall." It originated from the English word "water," and "tum" by onomatopoeia, as the sound of the waterfall reminded the people of that sound. So "tumtum," the word in the same language for hears, was given to it because of the noise of the beating of the heart, which reminded them of such sounds.
Tacoma means in the Nisqually language "the mountain," but it was not given to it by the Indians, as their name for it was Luwak-hu or Twawhuk.
Seattle was the name of an Indian chief, who was very friendly to the whites. As a rule the names of Indians on Puget Sound have no more meaning than those of America.
Kitsap county comes from a chief of that name.
Tallp, Skowahish county, means a wide bay with a small mouth.
Stillequamish means "river people."
Nookack, Whatcom county, is the name of a tribe, but has no meaning.
Sachonish is the name of a tribe and style of union.
Snoqualmie is not of much account, but they are strong Indians.
Teeklet, the former name of Port Gamble, Kitsap county, means "the brightness of the moonlight," because the sun at noon shines with peculiar splendor on Port Gamble bay.
La Push, Clallam county, is a Chinook jargon word and means "mouth," meaning at that place the mouth of the river. It comes from the French "La Boe," "Tatooch, Clallam county, is also a Chinook jargon word, and means "milk" or "breast." It is originally from the Chipewyan word "to-tosh."
Catalinet, Wahkiakum county, is written Catalinet by Lewis and Clarke, and was the name of a tribe of Indians as well as a stream. It evidently comes from the Indian word "Calanet," meaning "stone," and is believed to have been given to the river because of the fact that it has a stony bed along its whole course.
Kalama is believed to be simply a corruption of the above word Calanet—"stone."
La Camas, Clarke county, is the Chinook jargon name for an excellent root. It comes from the French "la" and the Nootka word "chamass," which Jewett says means "fruit, sweet, pleasant to taste."
Walla Walla, written Walla Wallah by Lewis and Clarke, is a Nez Perce and Cayuse word, the root of which is "wallata," which means "running," hence "running water." Two meanings of it are given, one being "a small stream running into a large one," that is the Walla Walla river emptying into the Columbia. Another is "ripple after ripple," "fall after fall."
Walla Walla means the same as Walla Wallah, but is in the Walla Walla language.
Almota, Whitman county is a corruption of the Nez Perce word "allanotin" and means torch-light fishery.
Apowa, Garfield county, is a Nez Perce word, and means "the mouth of Spring creek." The Indian name of the creek is "alpaha," which means "spring creek," and was so given because of the numerous springs there.
Fataha is in Nez Perce word, and means "brush creek," from "paton," "brush," because formerly the brush was very thick on it.

Astin is from the Nez Perce word "hasbotin" which means "creek," from the abundance of eels in it.
Yellow Hawk's creek, Walla Walla county, comes from a Cayuse Indian chief of that name, whose Indian name was Peshomonus, which meant "yellow hawk, or eagle."
Texas, Whitman county, is a Nez Perce word, which means "moss-covered rock."
Siwash, Stevens county, is the Chinook jargon word for Indian, and is a corruption of the French word "sauvage," for savage.
Kumtux, Whitman county, is a Chinook jargon word, meaning to know or understand. The Nootka word is kom-nak, the Clatsop word kematik, and Tokwakt word kamutiks.

VANCOUVER.
The following names on Puget sound were given by Capt. Vancouver on his visit to and exploration of the Sound in 1792:
New Dungeness, from its resemblance to Dungeness in the British Channel.
Mount Baker, as a compliment to the third lieutenant of Vancouver's expedition.
Port Discovery, after the name of his ship.
Faget Sound, from his lieutenant of that name.
Port Townsend was named Port Townsend, in honor of the noble English marquis of that name.
Admiral Koster, after his friend, rear admiral Koster.
Marrowsnow point, because the clay there seemed to be such a rich species of marrow-stone.
Oak cove, from the few oak trees found there.
Foolweather bluff, from the change of weather experienced in its neighborhood.
Hazel point, on Hood's canal, from the hazel bushes or trees, as he calls them, found there.
Hood's canal, or channel, as he named it, after right honorable lord Hood.
Port Orchard, from the gentleman of his expedition of that name who discovered it.
Vashon island, after his friend, Capt. Vashon, of the navy.
Restoration point, because he celebrated the memorable event of the restoration whilst at anchor there.
Penn's cove after a particular friend of that name.

An excellent remedy for headache from constipation and gastric derangement, as in fact it is for most of the troubles originating with the digestive organs, is Simmons Liver Regulator. It is not a medicine, but a restorative of that most important organ, the liver. It is a vegetable preparation and a very valuable family medicine for the various ailments arising from derangements of the stomach or bowels. As a headache remedy few things equal it.

A man can hire a house in Japan, keep two servants and live on the fat of the land, all for a little over $20 a month.

That Cantankerous Old Woman.
Described in the nursery ballad, who "lived upon nothing but vicuals and drink," and yet "would never be quiet," was undoubtedly troubled with chronic indigestion. Her victims, like those of many other elderly persons whose digestive powers have become impaired, did not agree with her. This was before the era of "letter's stomach pills," of some one of her numerous friends and relatives would undoubtedly have persuaded her to try the great specific for dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness. This would have been a measure of self-protection on their part, for she would have been cured and ceased to disturb them with her cantankerous and obstinate cases of indigestion, with its attendant heartburn, flatulence, constant uneasiness of the stomach and indigestion, are completely overcome by this sovereign remedy. Chills and fever, and bilious intermittent, rheumatism and kidney troubles are also relieved by it.

A Plymouth, Vt., resident paid his school tax, $18.43, in pennies. They weighed thirteen and a half pounds.

HOW DOCTORS CONQUER DEATH.
Doctor Walter K. Hammond says: "After a long experience I have come to the conclusion that two-thirds of all deaths from coughs, pneumonia and consumption, might be avoided if Acker's English Cough Remedy were only carefully used in time." This wonderful Remedy is sold under a positive guarantee by J. W. Conn, Druggist.

Figures show that there are more farms that voters in north Dakota. Governor Pierce places the number of farms at 50,000, while the voters at the late election numbered 43,000.

CARELESS MOTHERS.
Many mothers have permitted their children to be before their eyes when they might have been saved. Any mother who keeps house without a bottle of Acker's English Baby Ointment at hand, runs a risk which she may some day regret. It has saved the lives of thousands of children, and is doing so every year. J. W. Conn, Druggist.

FLAMING FIRE IN THE VEINS.
We hold positive proof that Acker's English Blood Elixir cures all blood poisons where cheap sarsaparillas and so-called purifiers fail. Knowing this, we will sell it to all who call at our store on a positive guarantee.
J. W. Conn, Druggist.

Kansas boasts of having the largest two military reservations in the country—Forts Leavenworth and Riley.

DYSPEPSIA, DESPAIR, DEATH.
These are the actual steps which follow indigestion. Acker's English Dyspepsia Tablets will both check and cure this most fearful of diseases. Guaranteed by J. W. Conn, Druggist.

HEADACHE.

"I was for many years a perfect martyr to Headache and Dyspepsia, and sometimes thought it would kill me. After trying many remedies, and finding them of no account, I concluded to try Simmons Liver Regulator, and I am now and have been for fifteen years a stranger to a headache. I can recommend the Regulator, for it is no humbug."
—B. I. DODD, Putnam Co., Ga.
"I have suffered for five years with the Sick Headache, and find it is the only thing that will give me relief."
—W. J. ALSTON, Arkadelphia, Ark.
"I use Simmons Liver Regulator when troubled with Headache. It produces a favorable result without hindering my pursuits in business. I regard it as a ready prescription for Disordered Liver."
—W. W. WITMER, Des Moines, Iowa.
